By visiting www.trevisuality.com, you accept the practices described in this Privacy and Security Statement, and you consent to www.trevisuality.com for privacy practices. TRE reserves the right to change or update this Privacy Policy at any time. We recommend that you review this Privacy Policy periodically. www.trevisuality.com is a website that is provided by TRE Visual, LLC. This Privacy Policy informs you about the Site's collection, use, and disclosure of the information you share with us. This Privacy Policy is part of the TRE Terms of Service. Using the Site, you agree to the terms and conditions of the Terms of Service, including this Privacy Policy. If you choose to visit TRE, your visit to the Site and any dispute that should arise is subject to this Privacy Policy and our Terms of Service, including limitations on damages, arbitration of disputes, and application of the law of the state of Florida. TRE is committed to safeguarding your privacy online. TRE created this Privacy Policy to demonstrate our firm commitment to protecting users' privacy of TRE products and services available through the Site. Please read the information below and any supplemental information referenced in this Policy for additional details about our particular Site. We do not sell, trade, or rent your personal information to other companies or third parties. We use the information we collect about you only to process orders and to provide a more personalized online experience. We will not collect any personal information about you except when you specifically and knowingly provide such information. If you have a question or concern about any of the information in this Privacy Policy, please contact TRE Visuality at TRE Visual, LLC, 3246 Inverness Ct, Orlando, FL 32806 info@trevisuality.com.

II. Information we collect from you

For Services, you have to that you register on the Site. During registration, we will ask you to supply information that allows us to identify you personally. This information includes your name, e-mail address, payment information, and other information that will enable us to contact you to provide you with our Services and maintain it. You have to provide additional details to TRE after you have registered.

III. Use of information we collect from you

We store all information that you provide us. We use this information so that we can be in contact with you after you have placed an order on the Site. We also use your information to contact you from time to time to send you additional information about TRE's products and services and so that we can keep you informed about new products and promotions that might interest you. We also use this information to enhance your experience on the Site. For example, we might use the information you provide us to show you specific content that we believe applies to you according to your preferences when visiting the Site or when we contact you. You may choose to stop receiving any future communications from us by contacting us through the "Contact Us" link on our Site. Please indicate your e-mail address and your desire to opt-out of future communications. After you have opted-out of future communications, TRE will not send you unsolicited communications. While using the Site, you can choose not to provide certain information; however, your decision to do so will limit your ability to use many of the Site's features and may inhibit our ability to provide you with our Services. You can update your personal information by logging in to our Site with your e-mail address and password and clicking on 'My Account.'

IV. Use of cookies and web beacons

A cookie is a small piece of data stored in a browser-related file on your computer's hard drive when you use the Services on the Site. Our primary use of cookies is to enable us to recognize your computer each time you return to our Site or use our Service, keep track of your preferences, determine what you have already seen on our Site, and improve your online experience. For example, storing a cookie on your computer allows you to login without typing your registered e-mail address and password. We may also use an e-mail delivery to send e-mails that you have agreed to receive. Pixel tags and cookies are used in those e-mail messages to measure our advertising effectiveness. Third parties, including third-party advertisers, may also set cookies.

Such third parties are responsible for placing and using such cookies and may collect information about you through such cookies. We do not have access to such cookies, control the use of such cookies, or control the privacy policies of such parties. Please also note that certain types of e-mails available through the Services on our Site may automatically log you into the Site and set new cookies when you click on the links in the e-mails and that you may need to manually remove such cookies if you do not want them on your computer. If you do not want cookies stored on your computer, reject cookies by modifying your web browser setting accordingly (each browser is different, so check the "Help" menu of your browser to learn how to change your cookie preferences). However, if you choose to reject cookies, you may not be able to access products and services that we offer that require you to "log in" or "sign in." In addition to cookies, TRE logs standard information such as your IP address and URL from which you came to our Site, and the URLs visited on our Site, which may or may not contain some personally identifiable information. IP addresses are used by your computer every time you connect to the Internet. Your IP address is a number that is used by computers on the network to identify your computer. Our web server automatically collects IP addresses as part of demographic and profile data known as "traffic data" so that data (such as the Web pages you request) can be informed. TRE will not use your IP address to attempt to identify your personal information. Other "traffic data" includes time, the type of web browser used, the operating system, and CPU speed. This information is sent automatically by your web browser when you connect to a web site.

V. Protection of collected information

TRE uses security systems and secure servers to protect your information. For example, your personal information is password protected so that only you may access or change the information. It would help if you did not share your password with anyone. TRE personally will never ask you to divulge your password in written or electronic communications. We will only ask you for your password when you contact us and only in cases where you request customer service to correct a service problem that requires your password. Additionally, TRE uses Paypal, a third party, to process all credit card payments. Please visit the Paypal website at www.paypal.com to read its privacy policy concerning the personal information you provide to Paypal for any reimbursements to TRE. Please be aware that while TRE protects your personal information to the greatest extent possible, Internet security technology changes rapidly, and data transmission is never 100% secure. We cannot guarantee that any safeguards we use will ultimately protect your information from security threats, whether now or in the future. Besides our efforts, you should also be aware that factors beyond our control may result in disclosing your information. Accordingly, we cannot guarantee the security of the information you transmit when utilizing our Services, and as such, you use the Site at your own risk.

VI. Legal Matters; Protection of Rights, Property and Interests; Safety.

We may, without your consent, access and disclose your personal information, any communications sent or received by you, and any other information that we have about you or your account: as may be permitted or required by law, regulation, rule, or court order; according to requests from governmental, regulatory or administrative agencies or law enforcement authorities; to establish or exercise our legal rights or defend against legal claims; or to prevent, investigate, identify persons or organizations potentially involved in, or take any action regarding, suspected fraud, violations of our Terms of Service, or activity that appears to us to be illegal or may expose us to legal liability. Additionally, we may disclose your personal information in situations that we believe to be emergencies involving potential threats to any person or property's physical safety if we believe that your personal information in any way relates to that threat.

VII. Sharing of Information with Third Parties

Information about our customers is an essential part of our business, and we are not in the business of selling it to others. We may, however, provide your personally identifiable information to other companies in the following instances: We have your consent to share your information to provide the Service you have requested; to send the information to companies who work on behalf of TRE. We might sell or buy subsidiaries or business units as we develop our business. In such transactions, customer information may be one of the transferred business assets. Also, if TRE or substantially all of its assets are acquired, customer information will likely be one of the transferred assets. We may store and process personal information collected on our Site in the United States or any other country.

VIII. Links to Other Websites

This website contains links to other sites. Please be aware that we are not responsible for the privacy practices of such other sites. We encourage our users to be aware when they leave our Site and read the privacy statements of every website that collects personally identifiable information. This privacy statement applies solely to information collected by this Site.
